From the Editor

EVENING STANDARD
47, SHOE LANE, E.C.4.
FLEET ST. 3000
TELEX 21909

15th January, 1968

Dear Mr. Weisberg,

Thank you for your letter of January 4 regarding Jeremy Campbell's news story on The Mind of Jim Garrison.

Mr. Campbell says that he cannot follow your argument about his use of 'secondary sources'. He was, as far as he knows, the first reporter to interview Manchester personally about his then unpublished book Death of a President, weeks before the main story broke. If Manchester was not a primary source in a story about his own book, he does not know who is.

I may say that Jeremy Campbell retains my complete confidence as one of the most outstanding English correspondents in the United States.

Yours sincerely,

Charles Wintour

Mr. Harold Weisberg,
Coq d'Or Press,
Route 7,
Frederick,
MD. 21701,
U.S.A.